Arzan Lali was born and raised in Mumbai, India, and later moved to Michigan to pursue his Master's in Computer Science. He further advanced his education by earning a second Master's in Management Information Technology from Indiana University.

Since 2000, Arzan has been a prominent and active member of the Zoroastrian community, serving on the executive board of the Zoroastrian Association of Metropolitan Chicago. His leadership and technical skills have been pivotal in major Zoroastrian events: he served as the IT Lead at the 12th North American Zoroastrian Congress in Chicago and the 17th North American Zoroastrian Congress in Los Angeles, and as the IT Chair at the 12th World Zoroastrian Congress in New York.

Arzan's contributions extend to various non-profit organizations, including the Zoroastrian Association of California and the North American Mobeds Council, where he has rearchitected and rebuilt their websites from the ground up. His expertise is highly valued by FEZANA and its member organizations, where he currently serves as the IT Chair for the Information Technology Committee.

Arzan remains unwavering in his commitment to promoting Zoroastrian heritage and culture, both within the community and on a global scale. He currently resides in San Diego, California, with his wife and son.”
